

"FIGHTING TOM" STEVENS.

THE CAREER OF A GALLANT OLD SEA-DOG.

STIRRING INCIDENTS IN THE LIFE OF AN AMERICAN ADMIRAL—HIS RECORD DURING THE WAR—EARLY DAYS IN THE NAVY—HIS HOME IN THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Washington, April 1 (Special).—It is unfortunate that in official history so much of interest must necessarily be left out. When it was the fashion to write voluminous diaries this was not so regrettable. The autobiography of General Sherman is a masterpiece of detail. In the hurrying end of our century this custom has quite gone out of fashion, and many interesting incidents that would adorn history are lost. It is, after all, the lives of the great men, the personal traits they played, that are the most inspiring, the most instructive to patriotism. The story of Thermopylae, of Quintus Cincinnatus, of the heroism of the little band of men, and the story of the great men, the personal traits they played, that are the most inspiring, the most instructive to patriotism. The story of Thermopylae, of Quintus Cincinnatus, of the heroism of the little band of men, and the story of the great men, the personal traits they played, that are the most inspiring, the most instructive to patriotism.

There are in Washington any number of heroes of the Civil War, but we are not hero-worshippers, and these men live quietly and unobtrusively, occasionally they are sought out by the public, but they are not sought out by the public. There are in Washington any number of heroes of the Civil War, but we are not hero-worshippers, and these men live quietly and unobtrusively, occasionally they are sought out by the public, but they are not sought out by the public.

At the battle of Mobile Captain Stevens commanded the Winnebago. For this engagement he was given the Medal of Honor. He was given the Medal of Honor for his services in the battle of Mobile. He was given the Medal of Honor for his services in the battle of Mobile.

During his early boyhood young Stevens was constantly in the society of naval officers. The heroes of the War of 1812 were his father's intimates. Bainbridge, Hull, Stewart and Macdonough petted and made much of him. His imagination was fed by the tales of the sea, and of great accomplishment. Brought up in this atmosphere, it is not strange that a passion for the profession in which his father had an unusually brilliant career took possession of the boy.

When they reached England the coronation of Queen Victoria was to take place. Minister Dallas and some of the officers of the ship went up to London for the ceremony. Mr. Stevens' knowledge of the affair was confined to what he could see about him in the harbor, since, unfortunately, he was not permitted to go ashore. He had lost the privilege of going ashore, but he was more interested in him than the coronation of the Queen was the passing of Nelson's flag, ship, the Victory.

At Copenhagen the Independence was welcomed with every possible honor. Guns were fired, bunting was displayed, and the King gave a reception to the ship. Minister Dallas and the officers, but young Stevens and his father were not invited. The reason was that they were anchored near the scene of Nelson's great fight, and in the brilliant light on shore. No mummy of that special time but worshipped the great naval hero and took him for a prototype.

At St. Petersburg Minister Dallas received with great ceremony. Twelve Russian line of ships came to the harbor, and the Russian fleet, under the command of the Emperor, came to the harbor. The Russian fleet, under the command of the Emperor, came to the harbor.

It was at this time that Admiral Stevens made the acquaintance of the Emperor's brother, the Grand Duke Constantine. Years afterward, while in command of the Independence, he was invited to the Emperor's table. He was invited to the Emperor's table, and he was invited to the Emperor's table.

At the outbreak of the independence remained in the harbor of Kronstadt was a gain. Everything was thrown open to the American officers. The Emperor's table, under the command of the Emperor, came to the harbor. The Emperor's table, under the command of the Emperor, came to the harbor.

Admiral Stevens' next interesting detail was when he was invited to the Emperor's table. He was invited to the Emperor's table, and he was invited to the Emperor's table. He was invited to the Emperor's table, and he was invited to the Emperor's table.

There is no clew to his identity. The office of the Washington Steamboat Company, in Seventh-st., near N-st., Southwest, was entered by burglars about 1 o'clock this morning. The watchman, James Farnsworth, was bound and gagged, and the burglars made off with a large sum of money and many valuable articles.

THE AUTHOR OF "AMERICA."

PREPARATIONS FOR THE BOSTON TESTIMONIAL IN HIS HONOR.

DR. SMITH TELLS HOW HE WROTE THE SONG WHICH SURPRISED HIM BY BECOMING A NATIONAL HYMN.

Boston, April 1 (Special).—Nearly all the details of the testimonial to the Rev. Dr. Samuel P. Smith, the author of "America," have been arranged. It will take place in Music Hall, on the afternoon and evening of April 2, and it is expected that it will be one of the most memorable events in the history of Boston. It will have an echo in many other places, for on the same day the Columbian Liberty Bell will be rung in Washington, and "America" will be sung in many public schools throughout the country. The programme of exercises for the celebration in this city is a notable one. Music Hall, which is within a mile of Dr. Smith's birthplace, will be elaborately decorated with flags and patriotic emblems. A large portrait of Dr. Smith will be hung over the stage.

It was during his cruise in the Sonoma that Captain Stevens learned of the death of the Rev. Dr. Samuel P. Smith. He was a friend of the Rev. Dr. Smith, and he was a friend of the Rev. Dr. Smith. He was a friend of the Rev. Dr. Smith, and he was a friend of the Rev. Dr. Smith.

Admiral Stevens' life since he first joined the navy has been a life of adventure and incident. In 1818, when returning home from his post as naval store-keeper in Honolulu, on the ship "Maria Helena," with his wife and a child, he was shipwrecked, and for three months they remained on a desert island. Here they suffered every possible hardship. On the island there was no food, water or game. They were compelled to depend on what they had saved from the wreck for sustenance, and were reduced to the state of cannibals. They were finally taken off by a French sloop and carried back to Hawaii.

Washington has been Admiral Stevens' home since his father was in command of the Navy. He was born in the city, and he was born in the city. He was born in the city, and he was born in the city.

NEWS NOTES AT THE CAPITAL.

THE INCOME TAX DECISION NOT YET CATEGORICALLY ANNOUNCED.

MR. CLEVELAND INVITED TO A RECEPTION IN CHICAGO—GOVERNOR McKINLEY AT THE WHITE HOUSE—A CRANK WHO WANTED TO REPLENISH THE GOLD RESERVE.

—COLONEL GOODING ADJUDGED INSANE.

Washington, April 1.—The income tax case was not decided by the Supreme Court of the United States today. It had been expected that the decision would be announced today, and the public had been waiting for the decision. The decision was not announced today, and the public had been waiting for the decision.

While there was no absolutely substantial ground for any decided impression that the question as to the constitutionality of the income tax would be determined today, there was an evident disappointment among prominent local authorities and others who have been devoting earnest attention to the matter that there was no voicing of the Court's opinion. When the hour arrived for announcing decisions, the presence of a more than ordinary attendance of leading lights in jurisprudence at the bar of the court signified the prevailing, albeit feverish interest felt in the forthcoming opinion.

A committee of Chicago business men, headed by William T. Baker, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, and composed of ex-Mayor John A. Roche, General George W. Smith, T. W. Harvey, David Kelly and Henry S. Robbins, had half an hour's interview with President McKinley today. The President had before him an invitation signed by over one hundred of the representative business men of Chicago, asking him and Mrs. Cleveland to accept a public non-partisan reception, to be held in Chicago, to express, as the address says, "our deep sense of appreciation of your statesmanlike and courageous action in maintaining the financial integrity of our Government, and your untiring and untiring efforts for the preservation of a sound National currency." The invitation was beautifully engrossed on thick card-board, and bound in book form, lined with white satin, the exterior being in blue crushed velvet, ornamented with gold. Mr. Robbins, speaking for the delegation, after their talk with the President, said: "We received very pleasantly, and we were invited to the President's table, and we were invited to the President's table."

Governor McKimley called at the White House this morning to pay his respects to the President. The visit was merely a formal affair. After leaving the White House the Governor called on Senator Sherman. He started for Columbus this evening. He was accompanied by his wife and a child. He was accompanied by his wife and a child.

William Martin Allen, the new Supervising Architect of the Treasury, qualified at the Treasury Department today, and at once entered upon the duties of his office. An Indian man, loaded down with yards of brass chains, his coat and hat fairly covered with cheap gewgaws, hunched a heavy bag up to the White House portico at 8:30 this morning and asked if the President was still buying gold for the Treasury. He said that he had a job of the precious metal, which he was willing to let go at par. He emptied the bag, which contained nothing but brass chains, and the clipping of the bag from the front door and drew from his pocket a lump of gold which he offered to part with for $100,000 in United States bonds. The nearest station-house, where he gave his name as William Lacey, his age as eighty-five, and his home as the village of the Little Sisters of the Poor. The police confiscated most of his treasures, and told him that the gold reserve had been fully replenished.

The usual public debt statement was not issued today, but will appear to-morrow. Colonel Oliver P. Gooding, of St. Louis, today declared insane by a jury and committed to St. Elizabeth's Asylum in this district. He was formerly a Police Commissioner in St. Louis. In recent years Colonel Gooding has fancied that a large sum of money was hidden in the vaults of the State House, and he has been trying to get it out. He was committed to St. Elizabeth's Asylum in this district.

An infirm man, loaded down with yards of brass chains, his coat and hat fairly covered with cheap gewgaws, hunched a heavy bag up to the White House portico at 8:30 this morning and asked if the President was still buying gold for the Treasury. He said that he had a job of the precious metal, which he was willing to let go at par. He emptied the bag, which contained nothing but brass chains, and the clipping of the bag from the front door and drew from his pocket a lump of gold which he offered to part with for $100,000 in United States bonds. The nearest station-house, where he gave his name as William Lacey, his age as eighty-five, and his home as the village of the Little Sisters of the Poor. The police confiscated most of his treasures, and told him that the gold reserve had been fully replenished.

The office of the Washington Steamboat Company, in Seventh-st., near N-st., Southwest, was entered by burglars about 1 o'clock this morning. The watchman, James Farnsworth, was bound and gagged, and the burglars made off with a large sum of money and many valuable articles. The office of the Washington Steamboat Company, in Seventh-st., near N-st., Southwest, was entered by burglars about 1 o'clock this morning.

Colonel Oliver P. Gooding, of St. Louis, today declared insane by a jury and committed to St. Elizabeth's Asylum in this district. He was formerly a Police Commissioner in St. Louis. In recent years Colonel Gooding has fancied that a large sum of money was hidden in the vaults of the State House, and he has been trying to get it out. He was committed to St. Elizabeth's Asylum in this district.

THE AUTHOR OF "AMERICA."

PREPARATIONS FOR THE BOSTON TESTIMONIAL IN HIS HONOR.

DR. SMITH TELLS HOW HE WROTE THE SONG WHICH SURPRISED HIM BY BECOMING A NATIONAL HYMN.

Boston, April 1 (Special).—Nearly all the details of the testimonial to the Rev. Dr. Samuel P. Smith, the author of "America," have been arranged. It will take place in Music Hall, on the afternoon and evening of April 2, and it is expected that it will be one of the most memorable events in the history of Boston. It will have an echo in many other places, for on the same day the Columbian Liberty Bell will be rung in Washington, and "America" will be sung in many public schools throughout the country. The programme of exercises for the celebration in this city is a notable one. Music Hall, which is within a mile of Dr. Smith's birthplace, will be elaborately decorated with flags and patriotic emblems. A large portrait of Dr. Smith will be hung over the stage.

It was during his cruise in the Sonoma that Captain Stevens learned of the death of the Rev. Dr. Samuel P. Smith. He was a friend of the Rev. Dr. Smith, and he was a friend of the Rev. Dr. Smith. He was a friend of the Rev. Dr. Smith, and he was a friend of the Rev. Dr. Smith.

Admiral Stevens' life since he first joined the navy has been a life of adventure and incident. In 1818, when returning home from his post as naval store-keeper in Honolulu, on the ship "Maria Helena," with his wife and a child, he was shipwrecked, and for three months they remained on a desert island. Here they suffered every possible hardship. On the island there was no food, water or game. They were compelled to depend on what they had saved from the wreck for sustenance, and were reduced to the state of cannibals. They were finally taken off by a French sloop and carried back to Hawaii.

Washington has been Admiral Stevens' home since his father was in command of the Navy. He was born in the city, and he was born in the city. He was born in the city, and he was born in the city.

NEWS NOTES AT THE CAPITAL.

THE INCOME TAX DECISION NOT YET CATEGORICALLY ANNOUNCED.

MR. CLEVELAND INVITED TO A RECEPTION IN CHICAGO—GOVERNOR McKINLEY AT THE WHITE HOUSE—A CRANK WHO WANTED TO REPLENISH THE GOLD RESERVE.

—COLONEL GOODING ADJUDGED INSANE.

Washington, April 1.—The income tax case was not decided by the Supreme Court of the United States today. It had been expected that the decision would be announced today, and the public had been waiting for the decision. The decision was not announced today, and the public had been waiting for the decision.

While there was no absolutely substantial ground for any decided impression that the question as to the constitutionality of the income tax would be determined today, there was an evident disappointment among prominent local authorities and others who have been devoting earnest attention to the matter that there was no voicing of the Court's opinion. When the hour arrived for announcing decisions, the presence of a more than ordinary attendance of leading lights in jurisprudence at the bar of the court signified the prevailing, albeit feverish interest felt in the forthcoming opinion.

A committee of Chicago business men, headed by William T. Baker, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, and composed of ex-Mayor John A. Roche, General George W. Smith, T. W. Harvey, David Kelly and Henry S. Robbins, had half an hour's interview with President McKinley today. The President had before him an invitation signed by over one hundred of the representative business men of Chicago, asking him and Mrs. Cleveland to accept a public non-partisan reception, to be held in Chicago, to express, as the address says, "our deep sense of appreciation of your statesmanlike and courageous action in maintaining the financial integrity of our Government, and your untiring and untiring efforts for the preservation of a sound National currency." The invitation was beautifully engrossed on thick card-board, and bound in book form, lined with white satin, the exterior being in blue crushed velvet, ornamented with gold. Mr. Robbins, speaking for the delegation, after their talk with the President, said: "We received very pleasantly, and we were invited to the President's table, and we were invited to the President's table."

Governor McKimley called at the White House this morning to pay his respects to the President. The visit was merely a formal affair. After leaving the White House the Governor called on Senator Sherman. He started for Columbus this evening. He was accompanied by his wife and a child. He was accompanied by his wife and a child.

William Martin Allen, the new Supervising Architect of the Treasury, qualified at the Treasury Department today, and at once entered upon the duties of his office. An Indian man, loaded down with yards of brass chains, his coat and hat fairly covered with cheap gewgaws, hunched a heavy bag up to the White House portico at 8:30 this morning and asked if the President was still buying gold for the Treasury. He said that he had a job of the precious metal, which he was willing to let go at par. He emptied the bag, which contained nothing but brass chains, and the clipping of the bag from the front door and drew from his pocket a lump of gold which he offered to part with for $100,000 in United States bonds. The nearest station-house, where he gave his name as William Lacey, his age as eighty-five, and his home as the village of the Little Sisters of the Poor. The police confiscated most of his treasures, and told him that the gold reserve had been fully replenished.

The usual public debt statement was not issued today, but will appear to-morrow. Colonel Oliver P. Gooding, of St. Louis, today declared insane by a jury and committed to St. Elizabeth's Asylum in this district. He was formerly a Police Commissioner in St. Louis. In recent years Colonel Gooding has fancied that a large sum of money was hidden in the vaults of the State House, and he has been trying to get it out. He was committed to St. Elizabeth's Asylum in this district.

An infirm man, loaded down with yards of brass chains, his coat and hat fairly covered with cheap gewgaws, hunched a heavy bag up to the White House portico at 8:30 this morning and asked if the President was still buying gold for the Treasury. He said that he had a job of the precious metal, which he was willing to let go at par. He emptied the bag, which contained nothing but brass chains, and the clipping of the bag from the front door and drew from his pocket a lump of gold which he offered to part with for $100,000 in United States bonds. The nearest station-house, where he gave his name as William Lacey, his age as eighty-five, and his home as the village of the Little Sisters of the Poor. The police confiscated most of his treasures, and told him that the gold reserve had been fully replenished.

The office of the Washington Steamboat Company, in Seventh-st., near N-st., Southwest, was entered by burglars about 1 o'clock this morning. The watchman, James Farnsworth, was bound and gagged, and the burglars made off with a large sum of money and many valuable articles. The office of the Washington Steamboat Company, in Seventh-st., near N-st., Southwest, was entered by burglars about 1 o'clock this morning.

Colonel Oliver P. Gooding, of St. Louis, today declared insane by a jury and committed to St. Elizabeth's Asylum in this district. He was formerly a Police Commissioner in St. Louis. In recent years Colonel Gooding has fancied that a large sum of money was hidden in the vaults of the State House, and he has been trying to get it out. He was committed to St. Elizabeth's Asylum in this district.

THE COURTS.

CLARENCE HOTEL DECISION.

JUSTICE BREKMAN RESTORES THE PROPERTY TO THE RECEIVER.

Justice Brekman, in the Supreme Court, has handed down a decision in the matter of Sarah A. White against Dions Frankel and Edward S. Lansing, Jr., growing out of the troubles of the Hotel Clarence, of Brooklyn. The property of the hotel, which was sold to the receiver, Alexander Gulliver, in 1891, has been restored to the partnership of the defendants. March 25, two attachments were sued out against the firm, one by Peter J. Montague and the other by Benoit Wasserman, which were granted by Justice Brekman, of Brooklyn, on the ground that the defendants had assigned and were secreting the property. Right was also given to the partnership of the Kings County to take and levy on the property in the hands of the receiver. Justice Brekman says that this is a case of partnership, and was not made on notice to the receiver or any of the parties to the action, and the receiver had no notice of the existence of the order until the Sheriff appeared and ousted him from the receivership. He says that if the receiver was appointed by the court, he will have been notified, and it is impossible that an action such as this would be sanctioned in a court of equity.

In conclusion Justice Brekman says: The motion to vacate the order of Justice Brown is therefore granted with costs, the levy made by the Kings County court order, and the Sheriff directed to restore the property to the receiver. The motions made by the attorneys for the attaching creditors to confirm the order are denied with costs.

AGAINST THE INSURANCE COMPANY.

JUDGE PRYOR MAKES SOME POINTED REMARKS REGARDING A CERTAIN CLASS OF CORPORATIONS.

The General Term of the Court of Common Pleas yesterday rendered a decision in the case of Mary C. Bernard against the United Life Insurance Association. The decision was against the company, and Judge Pryor, who wrote the opinion, used some exceedingly strong language regarding a practice said to be in vogue among a certain class of so-called "insurers." Life insurance companies, he said, are not to be treated as ordinary corporations, but as a weekly premium. It appears, he said, that these companies sometimes have a nice little business, by which they get the policy-holder to vitiate his own policy. The policy contains a clause making the agent of the company the agent of the insured, in making application to the company. Then, if there are any false statements in the application, and the person insured dies, the company will refuse to pay the policy. The company will refuse to pay the policy, and the person insured dies, the company will refuse to pay the policy.

Washington, April 1.—A case was decided in the Supreme Court of the United States today which, Justice Gray said in announcing the opinion, involved the law of general average in a matter of considerable importance and some novelty. The case was that of the ship "The Harriet," of London, which was chartered by the British Government to transport troops to Cuba. The ship was loaded with troops and supplies, and was en route for Cuba when it was captured by the Spanish fleet. The ship was captured by the Spanish fleet, and the British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo. The British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo, and the British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo.

SUPREMACY COURT DECISIONS.

A NOVEL POINT UNDER THE LAW OF GENERAL AVERAGE—A MURDERER'S SENTENCE CONFIRMED—THE CALENDAR.

Washington, April 1.—A case was decided in the Supreme Court of the United States today which, Justice Gray said in announcing the opinion, involved the law of general average in a matter of considerable importance and some novelty. The case was that of the ship "The Harriet," of London, which was chartered by the British Government to transport troops to Cuba. The ship was loaded with troops and supplies, and was en route for Cuba when it was captured by the Spanish fleet. The ship was captured by the Spanish fleet, and the British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo. The British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo, and the British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo.

Washington, April 1.—A case was decided in the Supreme Court of the United States today which, Justice Gray said in announcing the opinion, involved the law of general average in a matter of considerable importance and some novelty. The case was that of the ship "The Harriet," of London, which was chartered by the British Government to transport troops to Cuba. The ship was loaded with troops and supplies, and was en route for Cuba when it was captured by the Spanish fleet. The ship was captured by the Spanish fleet, and the British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo. The British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo, and the British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo.

Washington, April 1.—A case was decided in the Supreme Court of the United States today which, Justice Gray said in announcing the opinion, involved the law of general average in a matter of considerable importance and some novelty. The case was that of the ship "The Harriet," of London, which was chartered by the British Government to transport troops to Cuba. The ship was loaded with troops and supplies, and was en route for Cuba when it was captured by the Spanish fleet. The ship was captured by the Spanish fleet, and the British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo. The British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo, and the British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo.

Washington, April 1.—A case was decided in the Supreme Court of the United States today which, Justice Gray said in announcing the opinion, involved the law of general average in a matter of considerable importance and some novelty. The case was that of the ship "The Harriet," of London, which was chartered by the British Government to transport troops to Cuba. The ship was loaded with troops and supplies, and was en route for Cuba when it was captured by the Spanish fleet. The ship was captured by the Spanish fleet, and the British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo. The British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo, and the British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo.

Washington, April 1.—A case was decided in the Supreme Court of the United States today which, Justice Gray said in announcing the opinion, involved the law of general average in a matter of considerable importance and some novelty. The case was that of the ship "The Harriet," of London, which was chartered by the British Government to transport troops to Cuba. The ship was loaded with troops and supplies, and was en route for Cuba when it was captured by the Spanish fleet. The ship was captured by the Spanish fleet, and the British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo. The British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo, and the British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo.

Washington, April 1.—A case was decided in the Supreme Court of the United States today which, Justice Gray said in announcing the opinion, involved the law of general average in a matter of considerable importance and some novelty. The case was that of the ship "The Harriet," of London, which was chartered by the British Government to transport troops to Cuba. The ship was loaded with troops and supplies, and was en route for Cuba when it was captured by the Spanish fleet. The ship was captured by the Spanish fleet, and the British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo. The British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo, and the British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo.

Washington, April 1.—A case was decided in the Supreme Court of the United States today which, Justice Gray said in announcing the opinion, involved the law of general average in a matter of considerable importance and some novelty. The case was that of the ship "The Harriet," of London, which was chartered by the British Government to transport troops to Cuba. The ship was loaded with troops and supplies, and was en route for Cuba when it was captured by the Spanish fleet. The ship was captured by the Spanish fleet, and the British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo. The British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo, and the British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo.

Washington, April 1.—A case was decided in the Supreme Court of the United States today which, Justice Gray said in announcing the opinion, involved the law of general average in a matter of considerable importance and some novelty. The case was that of the ship "The Harriet," of London, which was chartered by the British Government to transport troops to Cuba. The ship was loaded with troops and supplies, and was en route for Cuba when it was captured by the Spanish fleet. The ship was captured by the Spanish fleet, and the British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo. The British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo, and the British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo.

Washington, April 1.—A case was decided in the Supreme Court of the United States today which, Justice Gray said in announcing the opinion, involved the law of general average in a matter of considerable importance and some novelty. The case was that of the ship "The Harriet," of London, which was chartered by the British Government to transport troops to Cuba. The ship was loaded with troops and supplies, and was en route for Cuba when it was captured by the Spanish fleet. The ship was captured by the Spanish fleet, and the British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo. The British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo, and the British Government was forced to pay the cost of the ship and its cargo.

Dr. Allen's

PERFECT

Tough Powder

Used by people of refinement for over a quarter of a century.

Unless it is paid his commitment will follow.

COURT CALENDARS FOR TO-DAY.

Supreme Court—General Term—Before Benj. P. J. O'Brien and John F. O'Brien. Cases: P. J. O'Brien vs. P. J. O'Brien, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100, 101, 102, 103, 104, 105, 106, 107, 108, 109, 110, 111, 112, 113, 114, 115, 116, 117, 118, 119, 120, 121, 122, 123, 124, 125, 126, 127, 128, 129, 130, 131, 132, 133, 134, 135, 136, 137, 138, 139, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144, 145, 146, 147, 148, 149, 150, 151, 152, 153, 154, 155, 156, 157, 158, 159, 160, 161, 162, 163, 164, 165, 166, 167, 168, 169, 170, 171, 172, 173, 174, 175, 176, 177, 178, 179, 180, 181, 182, 183, 184, 185, 186, 187, 188, 189, 190, 191, 192, 193, 194, 195, 196, 197, 198, 199, 200, 201, 202, 203, 204, 205, 206, 207, 208, 209, 210, 211, 212, 213, 214, 215, 216, 217, 218, 219, 220, 221, 222, 223, 224, 225, 226, 227, 228, 229, 230, 231, 232, 233, 234, 235, 236, 237, 238, 239, 240, 241, 242, 243, 244, 245, 246, 247, 248, 249, 250, 251, 252, 253, 254, 255, 256, 257, 258, 259, 260, 261, 262, 263, 264, 265, 266, 267, 268, 269, 270, 271, 272, 273, 274, 275, 276, 277, 278, 279, 280, 281, 282, 283, 284, 285, 286, 287, 288, 289, 290, 291, 292, 293, 294, 295, 296, 297, 298, 299, 300, 301, 302, 303, 304, 305, 306, 307, 308, 309, 310, 311, 312, 313, 314, 315, 316, 317, 318, 319, 320, 321, 322, 323, 324, 325, 326, 327, 328, 329, 330, 331, 332, 333, 334, 335, 336, 337, 338, 339, 340, 341, 342, 343, 344, 345, 346, 347, 348, 349, 350, 351, 352, 353, 354, 355, 356, 357, 358, 359, 360, 361, 362, 363, 364, 365, 366, 367, 368, 369, 370, 371, 372, 373, 374, 375, 376, 377, 378, 379, 380, 381, 382, 383, 384, 385, 386, 387, 388, 389, 390, 391, 392, 393, 394, 395, 396, 397, 398, 399, 400, 401, 402, 403, 404, 405, 406, 407, 408, 409, 410, 411, 412, 413, 414, 415, 416, 417, 418, 419, 420, 421, 422, 423, 424, 425, 426, 427, 428, 429, 430, 431, 432, 433, 434, 435, 436, 437, 438, 439, 440, 441, 442, 443, 444, 445, 446, 447, 448, 449, 450, 451, 452, 453, 454, 455, 456, 457, 458, 459, 460, 461, 462, 463, 464, 465, 466, 467, 468, 469, 470, 471, 472, 473, 474, 475, 476, 477, 478, 479, 480, 481, 482, 483, 484, 485, 486, 487, 488, 489, 490, 491, 492, 493, 494, 495, 496, 497, 498, 499, 500, 501, 502, 503, 504, 505, 506, 507, 508, 509, 510, 511, 512, 513, 514, 515, 516, 517, 518, 519, 520, 521, 522, 523, 524, 525, 526, 527, 528, 529, 530, 531, 532, 533, 534, 535, 536, 537, 538, 539, 540, 541, 542, 543, 544, 545, 546, 547, 548, 549, 550, 551, 552, 553, 554, 555, 556, 557, 558, 559, 560, 561, 562, 563, 564, 565, 566, 567, 568, 569, 570, 571, 572, 573, 574, 575, 576, 577, 578, 579, 580, 581, 582, 583, 584, 585, 586, 587, 588, 589, 590, 591, 592, 593, 594, 595, 596, 597, 598, 599, 600, 601, 602, 603, 604, 605, 606, 607, 608, 609, 610, 611, 612, 613, 614, 615, 616, 617, 618, 619, 620, 621, 622, 623, 624, 625, 626, 627, 628